

The Campaign with McClellan 1862

Composed by Wm. Issard. Co. H. 101st P. V.

In April last, on Southern land,
The Northern army took its stand;
They landed us at Fort Monroe.
From there to Yorktown we did go.

And as the rebels all can tell,
We threw at them such shot and shell,
That upon the 3^d of May
They quit the place and run away.

We followed them with all our might:
At Williamsburgh they stood to fight;
We give them there some heavy kicks,
And played them a few Yankee tricks.

They, to Richmond fled without delay,
And spiked their cannons on the way;
Deserters came and to us told,
The Rebel cause could never hold.
