Dear Sister -

I think it was a week ago last Thursday that I wrote you last; since that I have not rec^d a letter from you until to night & I made up my mind it was nonsense to keep writing so often as I have done. Hereafter I shall intend to write about once a week which is often enough, especially as I only get letters from you that often, don't you think so?

By your letter to night I take it that I have lost the one before it. You say you have written me once before that week in which you told me you had got some new chain
