Workshops/Classes/Courses Offered

▼ Lyndon State College hosts Coming Out & Coming Home: A Workshop for Gay & Lesbian Jews, Our Families & Allies on June 22, 2001. Gay and Lesbian Jews and our families are often isolated from community. We may be reluctant to affiliate Jewishly, uncertain about celebrating our simchas publicly, or we may be "out and proud" but the only GLBT Jewish family for miles around. Interfaith GLBT couples have a double set of issues to face. As parents, gay or straight, we worry about our children's acceptance. Through all this tsuris, we want to be Jews and we want to be ourselves. "Coming home" to the Jewish community can mean challenging and transforming both ourselves and the community. First we'll focus on ourselves: meeting and greeting each other, telling our stories, networking. Then we'll do takhlis (practicalities): share programs that have worked, offer Jewish resources for inclusive Shabbat services and GLBT life cycle events, and have the opportunity to wrestle with our troublesome texts. Workshop leaders: Judy Wienman & Rabbi Debora Gordon. This workshop is offered as part of the 19th Annual Conference on Judaism in Rural New England, June 22-24, 2001. For questions and registration information: 603-924-5081. jwisch@together.net, www.vermont.com/ruraljudaism (06/01)

What do you take to bed?

Whatever you take along for pleasure, consider this: We may feel safe in Vermont, but we're not immune to AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases.
