by Eric Orner

Terminal HOLIDAY
Part 2

6AM, Day 1:
Your exit from incorrect level prompts parental pick-up Paroxysm.

Why would you exit UPSTAIRS! That's DEPARTURES! What kind of person exits UPSTAIRS?!

TWENTY minutes round & round and he's upstairs!

4PM Parents have acquired new couple best friends, Ted & Joanne, who bypass polite yard line and rush straight for overly familiar goal posts.

Mom tells us you've never had much luck with relationships.

We were speculating as to why.

Hi. We brought the roast.

ROAST GROSST

Word.

Thought balloon's showin' honey

Nathalie SFF.

6PM: Kid brother & boyfriend announce new vegan status, sapping festive spirit of holiday meal. Sister & husband take offense (their great marital project)

Then take that box of art projects you did in 2nd Grade.

Snacks for the plane. Don't open it now.

2 boxes of pasta is snacks for the plane?

sigh. We're going on Atkins. Take the PASTA.

No Sale. What's in this bag?

NO WAY.

It's a Chicago Bulls ceramic pen holder. It's cute!

NO WAY.

Take this back with you.

No Way.

Say Ahh give up.

Day 2, after dinner: Watch news. Stick to your belief that we shouldn't start wars while admitting that it's always nice to see megalomaniacal tyrants fished out of holes.

Day 4: Fend off mom's sly attempts at unloading lots of her unwanted stuff on you.

NO WAY.

NO WAY.

NO WAY.

NO WAY.

NO WAY.

NO WAY.
