

[office 1884]

Monday 3 o'clock

Dear Katie,

According to promise I will write you this afternoon" papa arrived home about half past eight - last night, Joel has done nothing yet and hardly think he will, Mr Melendy told him this morning he could do what he pleased he should bail ^(papa) him this rather took him back for he thought - Horace would not - Powers thought - Page would not do anything so it is all right -

My foot is the same as yesterday Carrie is on the lounge asleep she has not set up any today has got a bad cold and a bad sore throat - but am in hopes she will feel better in the morning May is staying at home all day today I guess I shall keep her all day this week dont borrow any trouble about anything for if anything happens I will let you know

Your Aff Mamma