Dear Father:

Perhaps you may think strange I have never written you before. But I write Henry and Sam so I know you will hear from me often in that way. As they answer my letters sooner than you could. But I will write and I am in hope you or mother may be induced to write me.
I am quite well now. And have been very well all the time since I left Vermont except two weeks better than I have been for years. We are very comfortable in our stockaded tents and warm as one need be. I have seen no cold days like what we have in Vermont this winter although we have had snow for a few days at a time. The weather is very
