Mrs. Butthford

Dear Madam

I had the pleasure of being introduced to your husband on board the cars bound for Jersey City, was very glad to find I could have the company of Hannah Lechese's husband. Thus far (as I had often heard my aunt Hannah McHuffer call you, I felt acquainted with you almost by hearing her talk of you) when we came to pay our fare from N. Y. city to the Ferry I could not make the change, when we arrived in the city his train for Washington was due so I had no time to get money
