Dear Sister

As the mail will probably go out to-morrow and as I do not feel sleepy I will sit up and write a few lines to you my sister. I am as well as usual and as I have a good comfortable tent I am enjoying myself as well as usual. I sent a letter to Carrie a few days ago which I hope she has received and I have no doubt that she was much pleased with it. I do not know how to write to such young ladies to make a letter interesting to them. The last letter I received from you was a good long one and I have not half answered it yet but will try and answer it to night if I can. I wrote to you a few days before I received yours and I presume that I scolded you as I had not had a letter from you
