

Rape crisis
Vol. training

The Burlington Women's Rape Crisis Center is holding a volunteer training session starting September 16. The Rape Crisis Center provides information and support to victims of sexual assault, their families and friends, and community education. The volunteer training is in four parts and includes information on counseling victims, and on the legal, medical and social aspects of sexual assault.

The first night of training, September 16, 7-9:30 p.m., will be open to the general public and will be conducted at the Church Street Center in Burlington. The evening will focus on the myths and facts surrounding sexual assault, methods of reducing the risk of assault and the crisis intervention work being done by advocates at the WRCC. The movie "Beyond Rape" will also be shown. Prospective volunteers will be required to attend this session as well as three additional sessions, September 18, 23, and 27. The Women's Rape Crisis Center is seeking both women and men volunteers to help with the Center's hotline, public education, publicity and fundraising.

To register for the training and for more information, please call 863-1236 during the evening.

Coors Boycott Committee speaks out

Don't Buy Coors Beer

-- a message from the Coors Boycott Committee, P.O. Box 6382, Hartford, CT, 06106

Coors is anti-lesbian and anti-gay:

Joseph Coors is the founder and chief financial backer of the Committee for Survival of a Free Congress, where one of its leaders wrote, "I know what...I feel about these queers... We could get in our cars and run them down while they march."

The Coors Company has made substantial campaign contributions to California State Senator H.L. Richardson and Assembly Member

Alister McAllister, who led the drive to defeat AB-1, the California Gay Rights Bill.

Prospective employees have been required to answer questions about their sexual preference as part of the company's infamous lie detector test.

Coors is anti-labor:

Coors brewery workers maintained a strike for a year and a half in protest of being subjected to the lie detector tests that require information on personal finances, religious and political beliefs and sexual practices. Workers also opposed the search and seizure of their personal effects by Coors' private police force. The company then manipulated an election, to eliminate the union, in which only strikebreakers were allowed to vote.

Coors has busted 19 unions in the past 20 years.

During the United Farmworkers Strike, Coors volunteered to use his trucks to haul scab grapes from California into other states.

Coors distributors have historically been forced to sign contracts binding them to use scabs in the event of a strike.

Coors is racist:

William Coors, chairman of the board, called a meeting of workers, on company time, to urge employees to work against the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

Joseph Coors helped found and bankroll the right wing think tank, the Heritage Foundation. The Reagan Administration relies heavily on the Heritage Foundation's recommendations to eliminate affirmative action, cut back on social services, abolish the minimum wage, and encourage closer ties with the apartheid regime in South Africa.

In 1984, William Coors told a black audience, "One of the best things they (slave traders) did for you is to drag your ancestors over here in chains."

Coors is anti-woman:

Joseph Coors organized and funded the most vicious enemies of women's rights: Phyllis Schlafly, Senators Denton, Helms and Hatch -- all of whom are committed to denying women their rights and reducing their legal status to that of serving their husbands and fathers.

After the Equal Opportunity Commission filed suit against Coors, more women were hired, but according to sworn affidavits, Coors did his best to see that women were subsequently fired or forced to resign.

The boycott is working! Since 1977, Coors has expanded its market from 11 to 38 states, yet less Coors beer was sold in 1985 than in 1977.
