Cyclist Seeks Support on Cross-nation Trek

Next summer, I will become an ambitious amazon and ride (as in bicycle, not motorcycle), from Portland, Oregon to the east coast and back. I will be passing through your area at some point. I am self-sufficient when I tour - like a snail, I carry my home with me - and am not asking for food or lodging. Realistically, I may end up sharing both with some of you, if that's how it works out, but mostly I just want to have little lesbian connections all across all the country.

I am leaving Portland May 1, 1987. The only real deadline I have is the Michigan Womyn's Music Festival, usually the second weekend of August. I am going to the East coast first, (via Nev., Col., Neb., of Kan., Missouri, Iowa, N.Y., Mass. to Boston), so this is not going to be a moseying across the country and stop a few days here and a few there!

If there are any bikers among you, or if any of your friends are bikers, I would love to share parts of the road.

I expect to reach Boston around July 10th. The next part of my trip, after visiting an old friend for a few days, is the most open. I have never been to the East coast and will have about a month between my arrival there and the beginning of the festival. There is so much there and I have never experienced any of it, much of my time between my arrival and departure will be determined by spontaneity and any responses I get to this letter.

I am looking forward to an exciting winter of Oregon rain and planning this journey I have been dreaming toward for ten years! I'm ready to leave today!
