

Call for Abstracts

Bill Lippert and Esther Rothblum are interested in editing a book that focuses on the therapy experiences of gay, lesbian, or bisexual people who participated in "re-orientation" therapies or otherwise were encouraged to become heterosexual in the context of therapy. We are particularly interested in hearing from people who experienced these therapies in past decades when "homosexuality" was considered pathological. The book's focus will be on actual accounts by former therapy clients. We would like to know what the therapy experience was like at the time, what it seems like now, and how it impacted the rest of your life.

Authors are requested to submit a one-page abstract on this topic to Esther Rothblum, Department of Psychology, John Dewey Hall, University of Vermont, Burlington, VT 05405 by February 1, 1994. The abstract should include the author's name, address, telephone number, and a 2-3 sentence current biographical description.

We will inform authors whether we would like them to write full-length articles for the edited book. We hope to hear from people regardless of current sexual orientation. We also plan to include accounts from people who are members of ethnic minority groups, from non-US backgrounds, or from non-traditional backgrounds. Abstracts that are persuasively written and that catch the reader's interest will have priority. ▼
