

Susan Murray Honored

On October 10, 1992, Susan Murray of Middlebury, VT, was awarded the Jonathan B. Chase Cooperating Attorney of the Year award by the American Civil Liberties Union of Vermont.

The award was presented to Susan for her pioneering work toward ensuring the right of same-sex couples to adopt children. She successfully represented two women in securing Addison County probate court permission to adopt a child together. Currently Susan is assisting as an ACLU cooperating attorney in support of the appeal of two other women whose adoption petition was denied by Washington County probate court.

Susan was selected by ACLU-VT's Board of Directors to receive this award because of her energy and commitment to this important battle. ▼

VT-ETV to Run In the Life

Cleland Selby

As OITM went to press in early November, Vermont's public television station, VT-ETV announced plans to run the series regularly each month on Saturday night, beginning on Saturday November 14th. Public relations director Ann Curran said that while program director Ken Schwab has not yet determined what the time slot will be or which Saturday night the program will air after November, it will run regularly and will be listed in the monthly program schedule.

In the Life, hosted in November by comedian Lily Tomlin, plans to explore gay and lesbian life and culture across the United States. With no federal financing, the program depends on donations from individuals and corporations.

Watch In the Life and let VT-ETV know you support their decision to run the program. ▼
