

Dykes To Watch Out For By Alison Bechdel

The Drama of Our Lives

The setting: A coffee house. Three or four tables are set. People come and go. The spot light falls on one of the tables. One, two, three or more people sit at the table. They start to speak. They tell our story, the story of lesbians, gay men and bisexuals, here in Vermont. It is sometimes serious, sometimes funny. We come in all manner of gender, age, race, size and ability, so do our stories. There on the stage our lives come to life.

Ellie Jones (Montpelier, 223-3557) and Tamara Craig (Shelburne, 985-9115) are planning a series of workshops to create just such a play as part of the Vermont Gay Pride Celebration for 1993. They are looking for anyone who wants to participate in creating this theater event. You don't need to be a playwright or an actor to contribute. You might work on a section of the script (the dialog at one of the tables) with others in your area and not see the complete work until a final rehearsal. If you want to see this happen, give them a call. Don't make excuses. Do it now. ▼
