LOVE MAKES A FAMILY:

Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, and Transgender People and their Families is a photo-text exhibit that you can bring to your communities, schools, workplaces, libraries, colleges, and conferences. Family Diversity Projects in Amherst, MA is a non-profit organization which distributes multiple copies of this acclaimed exhibit. You can also purchase the new 1999 Love Makes a Family Wall Calendar for your classroom or home with photos and quotes from the exhibit (and soon-to-be published book). Calendar sales benefit Family Diversity Projects and GLPCI (Gay and Lesbian Parents Coalition International). For more information, please email us at famphoto@aol.com or visit our website at www.familydiv.org/LoveFamily and visit our other exhibits as well through the links. (2/99)

Ask A... Drag Queen

Out in the Mountains is your complete community resource, and we're here for you in your time of need. Every month we feature a different community expert — often with tongue firmly in cheek — answering your questions, requests for advice and pleas for help.

THIS MONTH:

Yolanda, as worldly as she is beautiful, tackles our readers' queries.

Dear Yolanda,

When they make the movie of your life story, who will play you and the other important people in your life?

— Movie Buff

Dear Buff,

Madonna will star as Yolanda; Princess Di will make a comeback as Cherie Tartt and the role of J'Andrue, the fabulous hair-styling maven of The Cherie and Yolanda show, is being contracted out to Theater On a Shoestring Talent Search Incorporated. At this time Helen Reddy and Greg Louganis are being considered: whichever one makes it to the VT GLBT pride celebration this year.

Dear Yolanda,

What was your inspiration for writing my favorite song "Angels"?

—Curious in Colchester

Dear Curious,

When I first moved to Vermont I dated a guy who worked with mentally challenged people. He loved his job and referred to the people he worked with as "angels struggling to become people."

Dear Yolanda,

People are always saying, "well they told me to do this", and "they said that I should", or "did you hear what they said about". Is what THEY say true? And just who are THEY, anyway?

—Confused

Dear Confused,

"They" just so happens to be me, Yolanda; and yes, everything I say is true.

Dear Yolanda,

I am a young rodent living in a comfortable Hinesburg home with three cats, a dog and two queens. The other day, while making my rounds, I notices this lovely silver house they purchased for me. There was a delightful table of peanut butter and sun flower seeds set in the middle of the room. Unfortunately, the walls collapsed and now I am trapped. Was it something I said?

—Oblina in Hinesburg

Dear Oblina,

Bad breath is indeed a terrible thing to deal with. It can wreak havoc on the world—it's no wonder you are in the tragic state of affairs you are in now. Have you ever thought of using Altoids?

TROUBLED BY...

- Nearsightedness?
- So-called clumping cat litter?
- Impeachment hearings?
- Raindrops on roses and whiskers on kittens?
- Lions, tigers, and bears?
- Armageddon?
- People who ask what it troubling you?

FRET NO MORE.

Next month "Ask A " presents Vermont comedian Pickles Reese fielding your questions. Yes, it's "Ask A Condiment." Send your questions to:
