

MARCH 21-27, 1999 equality begins at home VERMONT

Vermont-style

Celebrating With Food, Fun, and Fellowship

Vermont marked Equality Begins at Home Week with social, but informative, gatherings. The Main Event at Jeff's Maine Seafood on March 21 in St. Albans featured the Samadhi Singers and updates on political issues from the Vermont Coalition for Lesbian and Gay Rights. On March 27, The RU12? Community Center steering committee sponsored the First Supper at the Radisson Hotel in Burlington.

Clockwise from top:

1. Jamie West, owner of Jeff's Maine Seafood provided his usual fare of great food and hospitality.
2. The Rev. Chris Leslie directed the Samadhi Singers.
3. At the First Supper, equality began with a great meal for a crowd of more than 120.
4. RU12? organizer and OITM's design god Don Eggert joined the crowd perusing the archive display.
5. David Gramling spoke eloquently about the need to hear the stories of and about our community elders.
6. Members of BiNet joined other community groups in displaying information about their activities.

Photos by Maxwell Stroud

